MathSheetGenerator is a software utility whose purpose is to help teachers come up with math worksheets without putting too much effort into the process. Helps you generate basic math worksheets First of all, it should be pointed out that MathSheetGenerator is a portable application, meaning that there is no need to install it on your system, with the only requirement being that you keep its folder structure. Regarding the user interface you are welcomed with, it need be pointed out that it looks equally lightweight and fits the basic feature lineup it provides users with. As suggested by the program's very name, it is capable of generating worksheets based on a series of parameters you can modify. To be more specific, you can create exercises for elementary school children, with the difficulty level depending on how you configure the program. Can handle additions, subtractions, multiplications, divisions. You can thus generate various math problems with two operands, with the option to indicate a minimum and maximum value for both of them. Aside from that, you can narrow down the results, with the possibility of specifying the interval you are interested in. What's more, you can include solutions in the worksheet if that suits your needs. As for the operations the application can simulate, additions, subtractions, multiplications, and divisions can be carried out, and you can refresh the examples you are prompted with at any point. And since we have touched upon the subject, you can also preview your worksheet and check what the columns look like in the page. As for save options, it need be pointed out that you can turn your worksheet into a PDF or an image. You may also want to know that saving your settings for later use is possible. A handy tool for any elementary school teacher out there All in all, MathSheetGenerator is a lightweight application whose purpose is to help you create basic math worksheets for students. The program sports a simplistic user interface and packs a decent set of features, and it has run seamlessly during our tests, so it might be a good idea to look into what it can do for you. MathSheetGenerator Screenshot:
