Carrie Underwood from the Prairie Home Companion Carrie Underwood proved to me that I can make the plunge into country, because that's what she does. She's an American hero. Carrie Underwood, that woman, is the reigning queen of the music business. Carrie Underwood made me realize it's okay to be me, I do country music. She's pretty much beyond country in my eyes, though she can still sing in a whisper like she hasn't done in a while. Her voice can get along with any musical style, and she can do country, country pop, pop rock, rap, grunge, soul, whatever. I can't say that for any other singer I know. I'm not talking about anyone famous who can sing like Carrie does. Carrie's not like most singers, she doesn't just do what she's supposed to do, she tries to do everything. Carrie was an amazing songwriter. She could write an entire album
