Deletion of empty folders is a well-known problem for Outlook-using users, especially if they are excessively trying to save space on their hard drives. The problem is often a result of the fact that the folders' initial locations are not known because of the loss of configuration or because the user was tricked into deleting the wrong folder. What is Delete Empty Folders? With the help of Delete Empty Folders you can scan your folders for empty folders and clean up the leftover ones. It will clear all empty folders from your home folder (Outlook Home folder) and/or your Inbox folder. Once the empty folder is scanned, Delete Empty Folders sends the information to the Deleted Items folder by moving them to the Deleted Items folder. How does Delete Empty Folders work? Delete Empty Folders uses a number of built-in workspaces and a module pattern. The way it deletes the folder works as follows: Scanning: The program will scan the folders and mark the empty ones as "Processing". Schedule: The program will schedule the job when the computer is idle and the user does not use the software. Execute: The program will execute DeleteEmptyFoldersFile.vbs to start deleting empty folders. If a user is using the software, the user will see a dialog box saying "Deleting folders is pending. Please wait..." in the title bar of the application. Deletion: If the folders are the ones that were marked as "Processing", the program will call the DeleteEmptyFolders.exe module and pass it the folders that should be deleted. After the folders are deleted, the program will schedule a job to process the remaining folders. This will prevent the user from accessing the folders and deleting them again. Deleted Items: The program will move the deleted folder to the Deleted Items folder. The VBS script will only be executed if the DeleteEmptyFolders.exe module is installed. + 1 + 1 7 + 1 5 . - 1 6 * a * * 3 C o l l e c t t h e t e r m s i n 3 * c *

Each province is critical to the controlling of the world, with the exception of the strongest provinces, which are claimed by all players in the game. When fighting for dominion over a province, all units start on the attackers side. The attackers may enter the province by marching through the front door, gate, or they may surround and attack from all sides. All attackers units start on the attacker side when the attack starts. The defenders move to the shortest defending line and begin to build their own units. The first opponent that has the majority of the units over his enemies is the winner of the province. As all units move forward, reinforcements must be sent back and forth to protect your real estate. If any attackers manage to capture a vulnerable province for too long without counter-attacking, they gain a small advantage. If they manage to maintain a capital city and the protection of a trade route without sending reinforcements to protect the city, they win the game. The defender can stop attackers from capturing a province if the unit that moves through it gains 6a5afdab4c
